NAZI DIPLOMACY POINTS TOWARD TOTALITARIAN DRIVE ON SUEZ; MEDITERRANEAN

New War Tremor Felt In Balkans As Hungary Subscribes To Hitler Interpretation Of Europe's Future; Turks Becoming Restless

SOFTIA, Bulgaria, (UP)—Newspapers said today that the "day is not far off" when Bulgaria will play a role in the new order in Europe, and there were fresh indications that Bulgarian reserves were being called to the colors.

Reports circulated in Sofia said also that Turkey was moving increasing quantities of war materials and large numbers of men to the European part of Turkey, adjacent to Bulgaria and Greece.

Tension was increased in Sofia as a result of speculation on reports that Germany planned to send her troops southeastward through Yugoslavia and Bulgaria, but a careful check in neutral military quarters here failed to confirm reports that German troops already had entered Bulgaria.

By UNITED PRESS

Adolf Hitler hurled 500 warplanes and 1,000,000 pounds of bombs into a savage attack on the Birmingham industrial center, signed up Hungary in the Axis new world order today and sent another war tremor through the Balkans toward the Turkish Dardanelles.

The 10 hour, big scale Nazi attack on the heart of British war production in the Midlands and a Royal Air Force bomb blast at Berlin were chief developments on the war front.

The adherence of Hungary, it was emphasized at a Vienna ceremony attended by Hitler, is merely the beginning in the Axis campaign to sign up all European states, presumably including Slovakia, Rumania, Bulgaria and Spain. Italy and Germany also have made friendly gestures recently toward Yugoslavia, which was brought under additional pressure by adherence of Hungary to the Axis.

"This alliance is directed against nobody," Hungary emphasized, but there was general acceptance of the view that the Axis was completing its organization of Europe economically and politically in preparation for a Mediterranean campaign against the British Empire.

The Mediterranean campaign contemplated by the Axis powers presumably would be designed to assist the Italian war against Greece.

Lion Minstrel February 6th

Club Members To Supply Jokes For Show At Meeting Tuesday Of Next Week

The date for the Lions Club Minstrel, originally scheduled to be held in January, has been set back to February 6th. This was necessary, L. J. Anderson, director of the show, told the Lions at their meeting this week, owing to prior claims upon the high school auditorium.

After the club had approved the February 6th date, Anderson suggested, and the thought was accepted by the club, that each member of the club shall suggest at next week's meeting a joke which will be suitable for use in the minstrel.

Failure to have a joke to suggest will cost the Lion at fault a minimum 25-cent fine, it was agreed.

Lion Harold Morehouse addressed the club briefly on Thanksgiving Day, reading a copy of the first Thanksgiving proclamation. Attendance chairman Loren Atwood noted that in the ninth week of the attendance contest, twenty-six of the club members have perfect records. The "pay-off" social function of the contest is being planned for the night of January 11th, at Florida Inn, he said.

The club instituted plans looking toward a distribution of Christmas baskets to needy families, voted $15 to the Red Cross roll call, and heard a talk by E. J. Fitzgerald concerning his recent tour of the eastern states.

Next Tuesday, it was announced, Deputy District Governor Jack Thomas, and Zone Chairman R. J. Conch, will meet with the club.

THANKSGIVING IN CHURCHES

Union Service Announced; Mass Of Thanksgiving At St. Patrick's Church

Preparations are being made for an observance of Thanksgiving Day in the churches of the community, according to plans announced on Wednesday.

All who wish to attend will be welcome to unite with the members of the Church of Our Saviour and of the Federated Church, who will meet for a union service at ten o'clock Thursday morning at the building of the Federated Church.

One hour earlier, at nine o'clock, there will be a Mass of Thanksgiving at St. Patrick's Catholic church, followed by a Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. All friends will be welcomed.

The offering of the day received at the union service at the Federated Church will be turned over to the Red Cross for their use.

This service will be conducted by the Ven. Rex A. Barron, of the Church of Our Saviour, and the sermon, "Right and wrong Thanksgiving," will be by the Rev. Harold Morehouse.

The combined choirs of the two churches have prepared a special program of music for the service.

GRANGE NOTES

Gold Trail Grange

Gold Trail Grange held their regular meeting in their hall at Coloma on Wednesday, Nov. 13th, with a large attendance. The following candidates were initiated: Robert Goeglein, Myrtle Goeglein, Barbara Park, Lester, Jean Rosenberger, Jack Cummings, Myrtle McDaniels and Harry Chadwick.

During the lecture hour two songs were sung by Lester Martin: "Silver Threads Among the Gold," and "In the Gloaming."

Our mystery box was awarded to Charlotte Winje. Visiting members from Hangtown Grange were present including their Master, William Buchanan. The meeting ended with refreshments of chicken a la king, after which all the members gathered around the piano and sang.

—Zelma Rosenberger, Secretary.

Pomona Grange Meeting

El Dorado-Amador Counties Pomona Grange will meet Saturday Night November 30th at I. O. O. F. Hall, Placerville. Election of officers for the coming year. Pot luck supper.

PRE-SCHOOL HEALTH CLINICS MONDAY AND TUESDAY AT GRAMMAR SCHOOL

The Placerville Grammar school Parent-Teacher Association is directing attention to two health clinics for children of pre-school age, to be held at the schoolhouse on Monday and Tuesday of the coming week.

The Monday meeting will be a dental clinic for children who have not reached their sixth birthday anniversary.

On Tuesday the usual health clinic under the guidance of the State Bureau of Child Hygiene and conducted by local doctors will be held from nine o'clock in the morning until noon.

Thanksgiving

First Thanksgiving Proclamation

"To all ye Pilgrims:

Inasmuch as the Great Father has given us this year an abundant harvest of Indian corn, wheat, peas, beans, squashes, and garden vegetables, and has made the forests to abound with game and the sea with fish and clams, and inasmuch as he has protected us from the ravages of the savages, has spared us from pestilence and disease, has granted us freedom to worship God according to the dictates of our own conscience; now I, your magistrate, do proclaim that all ye Pilgrims, with your wives and ye little ones, do gather at ye meeting house, on ye hill, between the hours of 9 and 12 in the day time, on Thursday, November ye 29th, of the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and twenty-three, and the third year since ye Pilgrims landed on ye Plymouth Rock, there to listen to ye pastor and render thanksgiving to ye Almighty God for all his blessings."

Ye Governor of Ye Colony.

XMAS FESTIVAL IS OUTLINED

Committee Meets Friday On Details; Tree Decorations Contests Are Contemplated

Placerville is going to be decorated for the Christmas season and there will be special community events, sponsored by the merchants, to mark the holiday period in the community, it was announced Wednesday by A. H. Murray, Lions club president.

Mr. Murray said a committee of merchants in charge of the festival is to meet Friday to complete details, and meanwhile arrangements have been made to start the installation of Main Street decorations on Tuesday, November 26th.

"The Lions are not sponsoring the activity," Murray explained, "but the matter was brought to the attention of merchants at a Lions club meeting, and as a service organization the club is interested in the proposition."

Murray revealed the committee has under consideration plans for a contest in out-door Christmas tree decoration and some other special events intended to demonstrate a community interest in the season.

The committee also is working on a proposition to collect used toys which may be reconducted for distribution to help gladden the heart of some child at Christmas time.

"We have been asked about this matter by several people and we have plans under way but are unable to announce then at this time," Murray said. "For the present, let us say that we contemplate such an activity. Perhaps during the coming week we can complete our arrangements and announce the plan more definitely."

Reform School Fence To Keep Public Out

SACRAMENTO, (UP)—Director of Institutions Aaron J. Rosanoff today announced plans to build a fence around part of the Whittier reformatory grounds in Los Angeles county, but it won't be designed to keep the youthful inmates from escaping. Purpose of the fence, Dr. Rosanoff said, is to keep outsiders from breaking into the school's orchards to steal fruit.

Weather Man Predicts Rain Or Snow Thursday In Western States

By UNITED PRESS

With prayers for peace and the preservation of democracy and with traditional feasting, the far western states observe Thanksgiving Day tomorrow.

All states except Nevada in the far west set aside Nov. 21 for the observance. Nevada celebrates Nov. 28, the traditional last Thursday in November.

The weatherman predicted rain or snow for California, Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

The average American citizen who is the head of a family of four, will pay about $4.32 for his Thanksgiving dinner if he lives in one of the 33 states where the holiday will be celebrated tomorrow, a United Press survey showed.

The average price for the meal in 1939 was $4.46.

Water Need In County Noted

Chamber Of Commerce Has Varied Business Routine At Meeting Monday Night

The November meeting of the county chamber of commerce, at Hotel Raffles on Monday evening, made plans for the regular election of directors, voted to abandon the December membership meeting as usual, and considered a varied routine of matters of community interest.

President Swift Berry was in charge and named L. J. Anderson, James Dalziel and Sid Price as a committee of three to conduct the annual election of directors.

Anderson called to the meeting's attention the need for additional water in the county and indicated that in his opinion the county is unable to welcome many people who might wish to settle here, because it lacks the required water development.

It appeared from the nature of Mr. Anderson's remarks that he believes there is opportunity to attract to the county a number of people of moderate income who

GROWERS MEET DECEMBER 12

Ted Hodapp Added To Staff At Meeting Of Directors On Monday

The regular annual meeting and dinner of the membership of the Placerville Fruit Growers' Association will be held Thursday, December 12th, at the Federated Church.

Date for the event was announced following a meeting of the directors of the association on Monday at which Ted Hodapp was appointed to become a member of the association's staff, effective December 1.

In reporting briefly on the meeting of the directors, James A. Irving, association president, revealed that the fruit industry of the United States is facing the problem of a probable embargo on U. S. fruit by Canada.

"We can't predict how it may work out," Mr. Irving said, "but we have information that this is contemplated by Canada. Naturally we are very much interested in the matter and hope that the embargo may be avoided, for a considerable amount of our fruit this season has gone to Canada."

Mr. Irving indicated he understands the embargo proposal has originated with fruit growers in Canada.

A. S. Fox Notes Birthday At Dinner Sunday

The many friends of A. S. Fox will join with us in expressing appropriate wishes to him on his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary. Mr. Fox celebrated the occasion on Sunday evening when he and Mrs. Fox were hosts at a dinner at Mrs. Thompson's Chicken-Ree, on Coloma Road.

Those who were present in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Fox included Mr. and Mrs. Lester Brown and daughter, of Sacramento, Mrs. J. P. Ford, of San Francisco, and Miss Sylvia Tobey, of Placerville.

P. E. Bunker, Gustine, was elected director of the Northwestern Turkey Growers Association.

REPUBLICANS IN CONGRESS PRESS ACTION ON MAJOR ITEMS STYMIED BY NEW DEAL

Logan-Walter Bill, Amendments To Labor Relations Act May Be Taken Up As Effort To Adjourn Is Blocked By Coalitionists

By LYLE C. WILSON

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Jubilant Republican congressional leaders who mustered the coalition vote against adjournment of congress called today for action on the Walter-Logan bill and amendments to the National Labor Relations Act.

Both have passed the house but were stymied by new deal leaders in the senate. The Walter-Logan Bill, which the senate may take up Nov.

FARM BUREAU'S ANNIVERSARY

Dinner Saturday Night At Coloma Followed By Birthday Program

El Dorado County Farm Bureau will hold an anniversary dinner and birthday meeting Saturday night at the Coloma Community Hall, with all centers, of the county participating.

Arrangements for the occasion have been concluded by a committee of which Secretary Roy Marks is the chairman, with Harry Reaside and Max Bollman.

Dinner will be at six o'clock for Farm Bureau members. The various centers have committees which have arranged to make the occasion pot-luck in general respects, and a main dish will be supplied by the county Farm Bureau.

Following the dinner, the anniversary program will open about 8 o'clock in the auditorium, with Jas. A. Irving, president, in charge.

The program will feature a citizenship inaugural service for 4-H club members of the county who have attained voting age during the past year. This ceremony will be conducted by Attorney Thomas Maul, Sam Hern and Ellsworth Willard.

In addition to musical and other numbers, the program will also include an address by George Eberhard, of Col and San Francisco, concerning the work of the Farm Bureau and the advantages of Farm Bureau membership as they relate to solution of problems facing the agricultural industry.

Although attendance at the dinner is limited to Farm Bureau members, those in charge report that any who are interested are welcome to attend the anniversary program.

RADIO SPORTSCASTER SPEAKER FOR "BIG GAME RALLY" ON MONDAY NIGHT

California and Stanford alumni and others who have an active interest in the annual "big game" on November 30th, will hold a "big game dinner and rally" on Monday night at Hotel Raffles.

Master of ceremonies for the evening will be Howard Deems and the speaker will be Doug Montell, radio football reporter.

The dining room will be decorated in Red and White and Blue and Gold against a background of light blue, this last color feature in anticipation of the circumstance that someone is going to be disappointed when the final whistle in the game sounds.

Songs and yells of both schools will be heard during the evening.

Morning Star Lodge To Greet District Head

Lester Hancock, district deputy grand master, will pay his official visit to Morning Star Lodge No. 20, I. O. O. F., on Friday evening, November 22, at their meeting at the I. O. O. F. hall. The lodge meeting will be followed by refreshments and a social time. Odd Fellow members in this district are especially asked to attend.

C. C. Herbert, forest road superintendent, was in Lake Valley Wednesday.

22, would subject rulings and regulations of quasi-judicial agencies to judicial review. Amendments to the labor act were drafted after an investigation of complaints by the American Federation of Labor and by employers.

Democratic congressional leaders are off to a bad start as a prelude to President Roosevelt's third term with a congress on their hands for which neither they nor the White House has a program. It was the second administration effort to wave congress home, but in this latter one Roosevelt said he was strictly neutral. Rep. Thomas F. Ford, D., of California, warned the house that it would be an "insult" to the President to refuse to adjourn.

House majority leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., marking up another of his legislative victories, proposed action on the Walter-Logan and labor act bills and that the democratic leadership put the house ways and means committee immediately to work on a thorough revision of the tax structure. That would be better, he said, "than waiting until next summer when the thermometer is 100 to jam a bill through in night session."

Roosevelt publicly participated in the futile effort of the congressional leaders to persuade congress to adjourn last June. He kept out of the line of fire this time, limiting that he had no further major recommendations to make. The 191 to 148 vote by which the house rejected adjournment came yesterday a few minutes before is press conference.

The President said it made no difference to him, that he still had no business for congress although he might send up some nominations for promotions. Wendell L. Willkie had urged that congress remain in session.

Recreation Hall Open In January

Lloyd Raffetto, A. H. Murray Let Contract Tuesday For Six-Alley Bowling Center

A new and modern recreation hall will open in Placerville during the latter part of January in the quarters recently occupied by the Raffles Garage.

This is according to plans revealed Wednesday by Lloyd A. Raffetto and A. H. Murray, who are associated in the undertaking, and who executed a contract for remodeling and equipping the building on Tuesday to Paul R. Smith.

The current lease on the structure expires Wednesday of this week and it is believed work on the building may be started early next week.

Mr. Raffetto and Mr. Murray contemplate the installation of a six-alley bowling hall, for which contracts have been signed with the Brunswick Company. Near the entrance there will also be a soda fountain.

Murray said the plans provide for a recreation plant modern in every detail and one that, it is believed, will meet the general endorsement of bowling fans of the community.

"ROULETTE of LOVE" by MAY-CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS

Ten days after beautiful Lucinda Stanford's meeting with wealthy Carter Chalair, he confesses his love for her. However, socially prominent Zita Van Vorst has her cap set for Carter with the approval of his mother. Lucinda is happy in the thought that Carter wants to marry her but her heart sinks when, in reply to her question as to what his mother will say, he replies: "Mother needn't know a thing about it. What's it got to do with my family?" Then, one night, Carter does not appear. The next evening, Lucinda learns from Bubbles, her gold-digging sister, that Carter is to marry Zita. The same night, Carter calls but says nothing of his engagement although he speaks of the futility of life and how when one really begins to learn what happiness means something hobs up to spoil it. Carter induces Lucinda to go to Lake Mahopac for the week-end. She is worried when Carter comes to her room but he assures her that all is well. Lucinda is shocked, however, to find Carter's bags in her closet. He explains that there was only one room available. Next morning, Miss Perkins, Lucinda's office supervisor, sees the young couple and learns they are registered as "Mr. and Mrs. Brown." Lucinda loses her job as an advertisement writer. Carter takes Lucinda, Bubbles, and a party of friends on a cruise. His parents summon him home.

CHAPTER X

"Well, if you can't get either hard cash or a proposal of marriage out of him, you're a fool!" Bubbles harangued her sister one week after their return. "You think we can live on air—and kisses?" Lucinda said proudly: "I should never dream of asking Carter for money."

"Ya! You make me sick! You'll end in a charity institution, for all your proud airs! I've a good mind to go to his old man for hush money. I've plenty on both of 'em by now."

"Bubbles, you wouldn't? You couldn't?"

"Oh, I've tried to get in touch with Poppy, but his stuck-up clerks evidently have orders to head me off. I can't reach the old sinner!"

Bubbles' behavior was widening the gulf that already separated Lucinda from Carter's family. . . .

However, one day she got a job. As the stand-in for a star at a Long Island motion picture studio. This provided fluctuating fun. But Lucinda was still out of work.

Bubbles had also made a new "friendship." He was a good-looking, swarthy man who, without any visible occupation, seemed to have plenty of money. His name was Camberica.

"Look here, Lucinda, Camby's got a job for you. You can be hostess at that new Society place he's opening on East 71st Street. It's going to be a wow. Whenever my picture's through, I'll give up most of my time to it."

"What kind of a place?" Lucinda had heard a disquieting rumor that Camberica was a bad character—in fact, one of an underworld gang.

But Bubbles pooh-poohed her fears. Didn't everyone break the silly old laws in one way or another? Look at prohibition and the end of it! She told Lucinda not to be a fool.

So Lucinda, at a salary of $35 a week, including food and liquid refreshment, was taken on officially as a hostess at the "Casino Belgravia."

This was a high-class gambling rendezvous.

But apart from that little question of law-breaking, it seemed perfectly decorous to her. Camberica was strict. He would permit no alcoholic whoopie on his "exclusive" premises, though—to those who played roulette and baccarat and singlet-us—the drinks were "on the house," and the food too.

As she worked all night, and therefore slept most of the day, she usually only saw Carter between the hours of five and seven. Unless he dropped in to the smart gambling house on East 71st Street! And that was risky, because his father had laid down the law heavily, and threatened to cut him off without a nickel if he found him splashing his money about with questionable people—and though he himself happened to be a big gambler "on the Street" i.e. in high finance, the old man disapproved of his son gambling at roulette or card games.

Excitement took the place of tranquil happiness in Lucinda's heart. She dare not look into the future. Live only in the present.

She had not seen Carter for two days when she could bear it no longer, and telephoned him at his home, and got him to drive up late to the house on East 71st Street.

When he arrived, she saw that he was very tight.

"I'd a row with the old man. He picked up the extension just as you were ringing off. Zita was in the house. He followed me out to the car and gave me the devil."

Some new men arrived. They made a great fuss over Lucinda. Carter was annoyed. He wended his way upstairs to the gaming rooms. Fuddled as he was, he played with complete recklessness. Lost heavily. Camberica came in and urged him on, telling him he would win back his losses. But he did not. He signed check after check, amounting to a large sum of money.

And he would probably have lost still more, had not the police arrived to make a raid!

"Lucinda, you're a good kid but you're an employee here, and if they catch you, you'll be arrested!" urged one of her admirers. "I'm going to take a shot at getting out by way of the verandah. You follow me."

When Lucinda jumped from the window it was right into the very arms of the police! With the other employees (except Camberica who had got out by way of the roof) she was taken to the station in the patrol-wagon!

Bubbles had arrived immediately before this. When the "shair" was over, she took Carter—who was very tight and completely fuddled—home to the little apartment on West 98th Street and put him to bed.

Thereafter, without wasting time, she called Carter's father first at his club, and then at his country home. At night, late calls went directly through to Mr. Jeremy Chalair's bedroom, as sometimes there was trans-Atlantic business.

One can imagine his indignation at being aroused from sleep by the shrill voice of Bubbles, demanding that he get up and dress and go to the jail and bail Lucinda out. . . .

"Poppy" refused indignantly.

"Then if you're so heartless—after all you and I have been to each other—I shall make trouble for you—and I know plenty!" Bubbles averred.

"For heaven's sake, be more discreet. Someone may be listening on the extension!"

"I hope they do—and I hope it's your wife—if you don't do as I ask, she's going to get an earful! A cheerful little earful! And within the next few minutes!"

Discretion was the better part of valor. Chalair Senior told the importunate pest that he would communicate at once with his lawyer, who would send someone with the necessary bail for her sister, right away.

Lucinda and Bubbles slept the remainder of the night in the living room of their little flat, while Carter slumbered deeply and dreamlessly in the bedroom.

At nine in the morning they were aroused by the arrival of Camberica, who informed them that his lawyer—a clever one who did all legal business appertaining to the gambling house—would take care of Lucinda and get her out of this mess.

"And you get in touch with that young Chalair fellow, my dear, and tell him to have the money ready in the bank against the cashing of his checks. They've got to be put through today, before there's further trouble. They amount to some $20,000, Lucinda. I'll pay you your commission. That'll be all of $400. You're a smart kid!"

Lucinda stared at Camberica, shocked and startled. What checks? Carter's? She had had no conception of the extent of his gambling last night and this morning! That he had been mulcted while in a befuddled condition she now knew. She hated Camberica! Hated this whole life they were leading!

She started to protest, to ex-postulate. Carter, having heard a noise in the next room, awoke. In his crumpled dress suit, he walked out of the bedroom into the living-room. A wild argument ensued between him and Camberica.

"It's no good talking! You signed the checks, didn't you? Remember, Handsome," said the manager ominously, "the money has to be paid TODAY!" And he stalked off.

Vainly Lucinda tried to explain to the infuriated Carter that she had had no notion of what was happening the previous evening!

"Yeah? And I just heard that crook telling you you'd get your $400 commission! It was a plant between the two of you! I'm through!"

"But I tell you I shan't take it! I'll have nothing to do with Camberica! I'll never go near that hateful place again! Oh, Carter—"

He shook her off, roughly. "You lie! You deliberately got me there last night, so as to look me and get your shake-down! You're as crooked as he is! I never want to see you again! I tell you I'm through with you forever, Lucinda!"

When Carter got home that morning in his crumpled evening clothes, Jenkins the butler informed him that his mother was ill in bed with a heart-attack—that the doctor had telephoned to the office for his father and that his mother was asking for her son.

Carter flung himself into a bath, changed his untidy garb for the business suit, and hurried to her bedroom.

He found her propped up in bed, a high flush on either cheek, and Zita Van Vorst sitting beside her. In a few breathless words—and Mrs. Jeremy Chalair made the most of this situation—his mother urged him to "settle down". . . .

"In my weak state of health, it would be the finest medicine I could have—I believe it would make me a new woman, Carter!" She looked pathetically from him to the girl at her bedside. She added: "I don't need to tell you how fond I am of my darling Zita—how I would welcome her into our family—and so would your father!"

Hating and loathing Lucinda as he now told himself he did, and assured that this was the best way to put her out of his mind forever, Carter there and then was caught on the rebound. Before Zita left the Chalair mansion that morning, he had become engaged to her.

Jeremy Chalair had left his office before the doctor's telephone call came through, that morning, about his wife's sudden illness.

He was on the track of Carter. The bank had called him about Carter's checks. Yes, $20,000 was a tidy sum. Those gambling checks must be instantly quashed!

After reassuring himself as to his wife's better condition, he had a stormy scene with Carter. Stormy on his side, that is to say. Carter was surprisingly meek that morning.

"I want to know how you ever went near that dangerous house?" demanded his father. He had a shrewd suspicion that it was the Stanford girl who had lured him there. The one he had had to bail out of jail, due to the threatened blackmail of the gold-digging younger sister! . . .

"I tell you neither of those sisters are any good! They're as hard-boiled as they come. I was kind to the Bubbles one—in a fatherly way, you understand—and she dared to threaten me on the 'phone in my own home early this morning! The police had taken her sister away, it seemed, and a pity they didn't keep the baggage in jail, but I was soft-hearted and put enough on the job—" (Cruika was his lawyer)

"We bailed her out—but had I known she'd got you involved, short of lifting a finger to help her I'd have seen to it that she got a term—her job as a come-on in a gambling house would merit her a sentence."

This tirade did nothing to raise Lucinda higher in Carter's estimation. He told his father of his engagement to Zita Van Vorst. The bride-elect's mother announced the engagement in the society columns of next morning's newspapers.

CHRISTMAS SHIP COMING HERE!

They're on their way—Santa Claus and Joey the Clown with the annual Shell Christmas Show, traveling in the good ship Lollypop and bringing presents for all good boys and girls. Pictures show the Lollypop en route here and Joey trying to imitate one of the mystifying magic tricks that will be performed by the ship's Captain. All performances are free—everybody is invited to attend.

Special Christmas Program For Children On December 7th

The good ship Lollypop, bringing a cargo of treasure and a group of distinguished passengers, will dock here Saturday, Dec. 7.

Santa Claus heads the passenger list. With him are Joey the Clown, favorite of all children, and the Lollypop's Captain who has collected new tricks of magic from all parts of the world to show his friends here.

Sailing through the city streets with pennants flying and music playing, the Lollypop will drop anchor and the annual Shell Christmas Show, which has become a holiday institution throughout the entire west, will be given on the ship's deck for the entertainment of local children.

"The Shell Christmas Show has been touring the west for ten years, spreading holiday spirit and bringing gifts to the youngsters," it was said by Shell's local manager, L. R. Armes.

"The 1940 show is the best we have ever had. The show is traveling in a land-riding yacht, painted in gay colors and a sight long to remember. At the conclusion of the magic demonstration, Santa Claus will mysteriously appear and distribute a unique gift and a lollypop to every good boy and girl.

"Parents as well as children are invited to attend the Shell Christmas Show. Everything is free."

Local performances of the show will be given at the Bell Tower on Main Street.

Nation-Wide Survey Names Lone Institution One Of Best In United States

That the state of California has within its borders one of the best institutions for delinquent youths in the United States, and another with a negative and repressive program in striking contrast with its fine buildings, is the opinion expressed by The Osborne Association, a national organization founded by the late Thomas Mott Osborne, eminent authority on crime and juvenile delinquency, in a report made public today on its nation-wide survey of training schools. When the survey is completed, it will include every federal and state institution in twelve states have now been surveyed. The Association is concerned in its survey with discovering and promoting better methods of dealing with juvenile delinquents and preventing their development into adult criminals.

In Volume III of the Association's Handbook of American Institutions for Delinquent Juveniles, published today, based upon a survey made early in 1940 of the three training schools of California, two in the neighboring state of Oregon and two in Washington, the Preston School of Industry near Ione, is given a high rating and is described as having an extensive program of education and trade training. The Ventura School for Girls at Ventura, California, on the other hand, is described as repressive in its methods and "requiring regimented conformity to routines" without constructively training the girls committed to the school.

The institution studies were made and the Handbook reports written by William B. Cox, executive secretary of the Osborne Association and veteran of many nation-wide surveys, and Joseph A. Shelly, field and research secretary. G. Howland Shaw of Washington is president of the Osborne Association. He is associated with many organizations interested in juvenile delinquency, is a member of the board of visitors of the National Training School for Boys, and is vice-president of the Children's Village at Dobbs Ferry, New York, and of the National Conference of Juvenile Agencies. Austin H. MacCormick, executive director of The Osborne Association, was formerly commissioner of correction of New York city and is a nationally known authority on problems of correction.

For the Preston School of Industry and its management the Osborne Association report has high praise: "Twenty years of experimentation and planning under the intelligent leadership of a well-grounded, farsighted friend and teacher of older boys has resulted in developing the Preston School of industry into one of the better institutions for delinquent youths visited to date in this survey." The reference is to Superintendent O. H. Close of the school.

"The administration has succeeded admirably," the report states, "in avoiding a penal atmosphere. In food services are well organized and the menus show a diversity of wholesome food. . . the institution is to be commended for its vigorous year-round educational program. . . the vocational program directs attention to real life situations and prepares students for employment on release. . . medical services are well organized under a full-time staff and the hospital facilities are the most modern and complete to be found in the institutions covered on the Pacific Coast. . . the psychological department in this school is better organized than any similar department of the state institutions for delinquent juveniles in California, Oregon or Washington. . . discipline is intelligently and humanely administered. . . although the institution is of the open variety, with no physical barriers to prevent students from running away, only a negligible percentage take advantage of this situation. . . the case records of the institution make possible thorough individual study of the boys committed to it."

P. T. & T. AND SUBSIDIARY COMPANIES WILL SPEND APPROXIMATELY $55,000,000 IN CONSTRUCTION IN COMING YEAR

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company and its subsidiaries will spend in gross construction in 1940 a total of $46,000,000 and it is now anticipated that in 1941 the gross construction expenditure will run well in excess of $55,000,000 throughout the Pacific Coast, in keeping pace with the public's requirement for telephone service and on meeting effectively and patriotically our responsibilities in the national defense program. It was announced today by N. R. Powley, president of the Company.

This two-year construction program of approximately $100,000,000, stated Powley, is one of the largest in the history of the company. The expenditures are in general in the following classification—land and buildings, $3,800,000; office equipment, $25,000,000; station equipment, $41,800,000; exchange lines, $18,000,000; toll lines, $10,200,000; general equipment, $2,200,000.

Fully appreciating the significant part that the Telephone Company must play in the national defense plans, active steps have been and are being taken to keep in the vanguard to meet promptly and effectively the telephone requirements of the Army and Navy and other such branches of the government inclusive of all locations such as encampments, army posts, air corps stations, and naval establishments. In anticipation of these facilities, properly safeguarded, will be available when and where wanted.

Included in the construction program are several outstanding proposed projects, designed to meet increasing service demands as well as being directly related to safeguarding the service and meeting the requirements of national defense. Prominent among these is the proposed placing of telephone buried cable lines from the Utah line into California, and connecting with cables reaching important centers through the United States. These cables will provide greatly increased transcontinental telephone facilities and this project alone will cost an estimated $7,000,000. This is one of the largest cable projects ever to be undertaken by the company.

Other cables of the same type will be placed between Stockton and Sacramento, over a 47-mile route, at a cost of approximately $675,000. This cable will furnish additional facilities, not only between Sacramento and Stockton, but will provide an important link for long haul traffic to the Northwest, the southern part of California, and the East.

A third large project provides for the construction of cables over a 73-mile section between Weed and Redding at an estimated cost of $1,500,000. The cables will replace the present open wire lines through the Sacramento River Canyon. This section is subjected to severe winter storms and replacement of exposed wires with underground facilities will afford further protection would be interested in settling on small acreages where they might have flowers, lawns and trees and small gardens for their own use.

The matter had been before the chamber of commerce earlier in the year and had been referred to the water committee of which C. E. Barker is chairman. The committee had found that some effort was being made to improve the water situation by existing organizations at that time and in respect to this effort temporarily laid aside further consideration on the subject.

Secretary Wallace Ripley reported on the chamber's representations to the state highway commission in respect to work sought in the county during the approaching biennium.

The membership committee recommended Charles Molinari and Milo Carr for membership, which was approved.

H. E. Dillinger reported on preliminary work being done in connection with an effort by the County Fair Association to obtain an exhibit pavilion at the county fair grounds. Dillinger said preliminary plans were being developed preparatory to again presenting the matter to agencies concerned.

Mr. Dillinger suggested that the chamber of commerce might render a service to business men of the community by undertaking to seek an earlier morning collection of mail from lock boxes in the city. He said he understands that at the present time, mail is collected from these boxes about ten o'clock. This means, he noted, that mail dropped into the boxes of an afternoon does not leave the community until the next afternoon. If the hour of collection could be advanced a couple of hours in the morning, he thought, this would insure the departure of mail dropped into the boxes in the next forenoon.

Discussion on the matter brought out the point that some business men have found themselves liable to penalties from the state Board of Equalization for failure to get their sales tax returns in on time. It was indicated that the existing plan of collection of mail from the lock boxes might have had something to do with the apparent delay.

It was also suggested that a change in the plan of cancellation of mail at the Placerville office might be sought. It was noted that in the case of sales tax reports, some of which are due on the fifteenth of the month and delinquent after that date, a merchant might mail his report late on the afternoon of the fifteenth and be within the law in this regard. However, owing to the cancellation plan, the mail would not be cancelled until the morning following and would reach the Board of Equalization bearing a 16th postmark and would thus be delinquent.

It was not known whether any change could reasonably be expected under postoffice regulations to this matter.

County Pig Makes Good

Five-Week Old Patricia Is Currently Residing At Hollywood Apartment

Hollywood is currently entertaining Patricia, a five-week old Chester White pig from the A. H. Peterson ranch at Lotus.

And Patricia is rather enjoying her stay in the film capital too, according to reports, because she has a harness and ribbons and gets to go walking and night-clubbing with her master, A. H. Peterson, who is a labor union official in the southern city.

Patricia, according to Mrs. Peterson, was the "runt of the litter" of ten pigs. She was so small when born that Mrs. Peterson took her into the house and made her comfortable on an electric pad, feeding her from a teaspoon.

Three days later Pat was drinking out of a cup, and she has continued her drinking in this form ever since.

Mr. Peterson took her to Hollywood with him and has taught her to walk with a leash, just like a puppy and Patricia seems to enjoy it thoroughly. She has a bath twice a week and, like the modern girl that she is, has her toenails painted.

tripod. Triple threat photographers who can focus, develop, print and project will be at a premium, and the time may come when Margaret Bourke White, Steichen, Bachrach, Hurrell and Pire McDonald will be given places on the coaching staff to instruct the candid camera half-backs.

If photography does take its place in football, there will be one distressing angle. Double features, already the bane of many a moviegoer's life, will become triple features. Along with "purple passion" and "souls adrift," there will be shown a football game, at which the actual and official score will be announced. All bets on games will be made "payable in the lobby" after the last reel is shown and it has been proved who really won.

The cameras are going to make it very tough on the football officials. If they pull boners, they'll be right there on the reel because, unlike Hollywood stars, they won't be able to get retakes.

Today's Sport Parade

By Henry McLemore
United Press Staff Correspondent

OKLAHOMA CITY, (UP)—This is a long, long way from Hanover, New Hampshire, but even out here the folks are beginning to wonder what Dartmouth plans in honor of the cameraman whose pictures gave the big green football team a belated, but nonetheless tremendous, 3 to 0 victory over supposedly invincible Cornell last Saturday.

It has been suggested that Dartmouth athletic officials retire the jersey number of the cameraman whose shots revealed that Cornell had five downs in scoring its touchdown, but as Grange's 77 was put away in a case and just as Tommy Harmon's 98 will be placed in moth balls, lace and old lavender by Michigan at the end of this season.

This would be entirely fitting if only cameramen were jerseys and numbers. But as they don't, I would like to suggest to Coach Red Blaik and Athletic Director Jim Lynch that they retire the complete outfit of the cameraman wearing last Saturday. Put his topcoat in one case, his pants and coat in another, his shirt, tie and collar in another, and his studs, shoes, socks, and derby in another. After this was done, they could buy the cameraman a new outfit and formally announce that no cameraman wearing an outfit similar to the one retired would be allowed in the Dartmouth stands.

The more you think of what an upset Dartmouth's victory was, and of what an important part the pictures played in bringing about a reversal of the first verdict, the more you feel that Dartmouth should award the cameraman a Block D. Not a plain Block D, either, but a special one with tassels, epaulettes, palms. And maybe a fringe of tating.

I can't help but speculate as to the changes in football this incident of last Saturday is likely to bring about. In the first place, football teams may be expected to start scouting for promising young photographers as well as for tackle, guard and fullback material. Offers of tuition, board and a soft job will be made to high school boys who show extraordinary talent in the dark room or have a way with lenses or a natural, easy motion with a

Bingo and other games followed the meeting.

SHAKESPEARE MEMBERS HOLD PROGRAM MEETING ON TUESDAY

The Program Day of the Placerville Shakespeare Club was held at the clubhouse Tuesday, November 19. Motion pictures of the dust-bowl area and work on conservation of water throughout the western states, of hundreds of small dirt and concrete dams being built by WPA was most interesting as shown by H. H. Hyatt.

Mrs. Harriet Amstalden and Eva Carpenter presented a skit, "Getting up the Picnic," which was enjoyed by those present. Mrs. Edith Hodapp was chairman of the afternoon and Mrs. Helen Pierroz and Mrs. J. H. Palmer served pumpkin pie and coffee in the dining room which was decorated in autumn colors.

Plans for the Bazaar of the club are going ahead to be held December 6. Some decorated boxes were shown and Tuesday, November 26 those interested will meet at the clubhouse at 1 o'clock to make more. There is no garden section this month.

Fancy work, cooked foods, home-made candy, novelties will be on sale at the bazaar opening at 2 p. m. December 6th.

The party and tea honoring new members will be held at the clubhouse on the afternoon of November 29th.

Patricia meets lots of celebrities as she goes about with her master. When she isn't a center of attraction, as in the accompanying picture, she lays upon her master's lap. That's what she likes best, to have Mr. Peterson sit down to read and let her sleep on his lap.

FIVE MILE TERRACE

The regular meeting of the Blair's P. T. A. was held at the school house Friday afternoon, November 15. A Chinese exhibit prepared in connection with their school work was a special feature of the meeting. Mrs. Corbell, the teacher, appeared in costume.

The children of Blair's school are now enjoying a week's vacation and will return to classes on Nov. 25. There are now 18 children enrolled, Harold McIntyre of Sacramento, having recently joined the eighth graders.

Mrs. Joe Witter will entertain as her Thanksgiving guests, her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Chesmore and her granddaughter, Helen Morrow.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lee Feover and children of Camino visited the Bob Williams Sunday evening. George Stennett was among the pheasant hunters who returned with the limit catch. He was hunting in the vicinity of Biggs.

Mrs. Margaret Reid of Sacramento visited her mother, Mrs. Linda J. Miller on Friday.

Lad Quilberg was home from Grizzly Flat over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Allen and son Raymond have moved from the Tidd cottage and are now making their home in Shingle.

Dave O'Day of Oakland arrived at the Gene Ward home Sunday evening for a few days visit.

John Ward took a high dive from the top of a thirty foot tree while playing near his home on Saturday. He was badly bruised but no bones were broken.

Friends of John Smali of Camino will regret to learn of his recent passing at the Placerville Hospital following a stroke.

The poultry show at Santa Anita race track, Los Angeles county, will be held December 2-8.
